

Amicorp BPO offers Trust Outsourcing Services

Throughout the financial services industry, companies face serious challenges in today's turbulent environment. Pressure to reduce costs continues to grow. As a result, cost-effective back-office activities, including accounting, financial administration and governance in trust and company management operations are more important than ever.

One way banks, trust companies and other similar organizations can maximize the relationship value of providing trust and wealth management services while minimizing costs is to strategically outsource various components involved in providing these services.

With this in mind, Amicorp BPO Services offers you the possibility to effectively and economically outsource all or part of your trust back-office operations. This frees you to focus on your core activities.

Amicorp Trust and Company Management outsourcing services include:

- At the Client level (the bank / trust department) – Supporting services for internal administration, management reporting and time registration
- At the Customer level (for clients of the bank / trust department) – Supporting services for compliance, government filing, accounting, tax and legal services, and invoicing and collection

Do not underestimate the benefits. Depending on the size of the department and complexity of the services provided, it is not unusual to reduce the core costs of providing trust and related wealth management services by 50% or more, by strategically outsourcing trust administration and operations.

In addition to achieving the benefits of reduced overhead, outsourcing trust administration and operations offers trust department managers an opportunity to examine business practices and methods that could simultaneously reveal significant revenue enhancement opportunities.
